- A face covering includes anything that covers your nose and mouth, such as a mask, scarf, or bandana.
- Wearing a face covering does not take the place of other public health precautions like maintaining six feet of physical distance between yourself and others, and proper sanitation and personal hygiene.

One of the First Divisions to Earn this Designation

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE: GOOCHLAND, VA - September 21, 2020

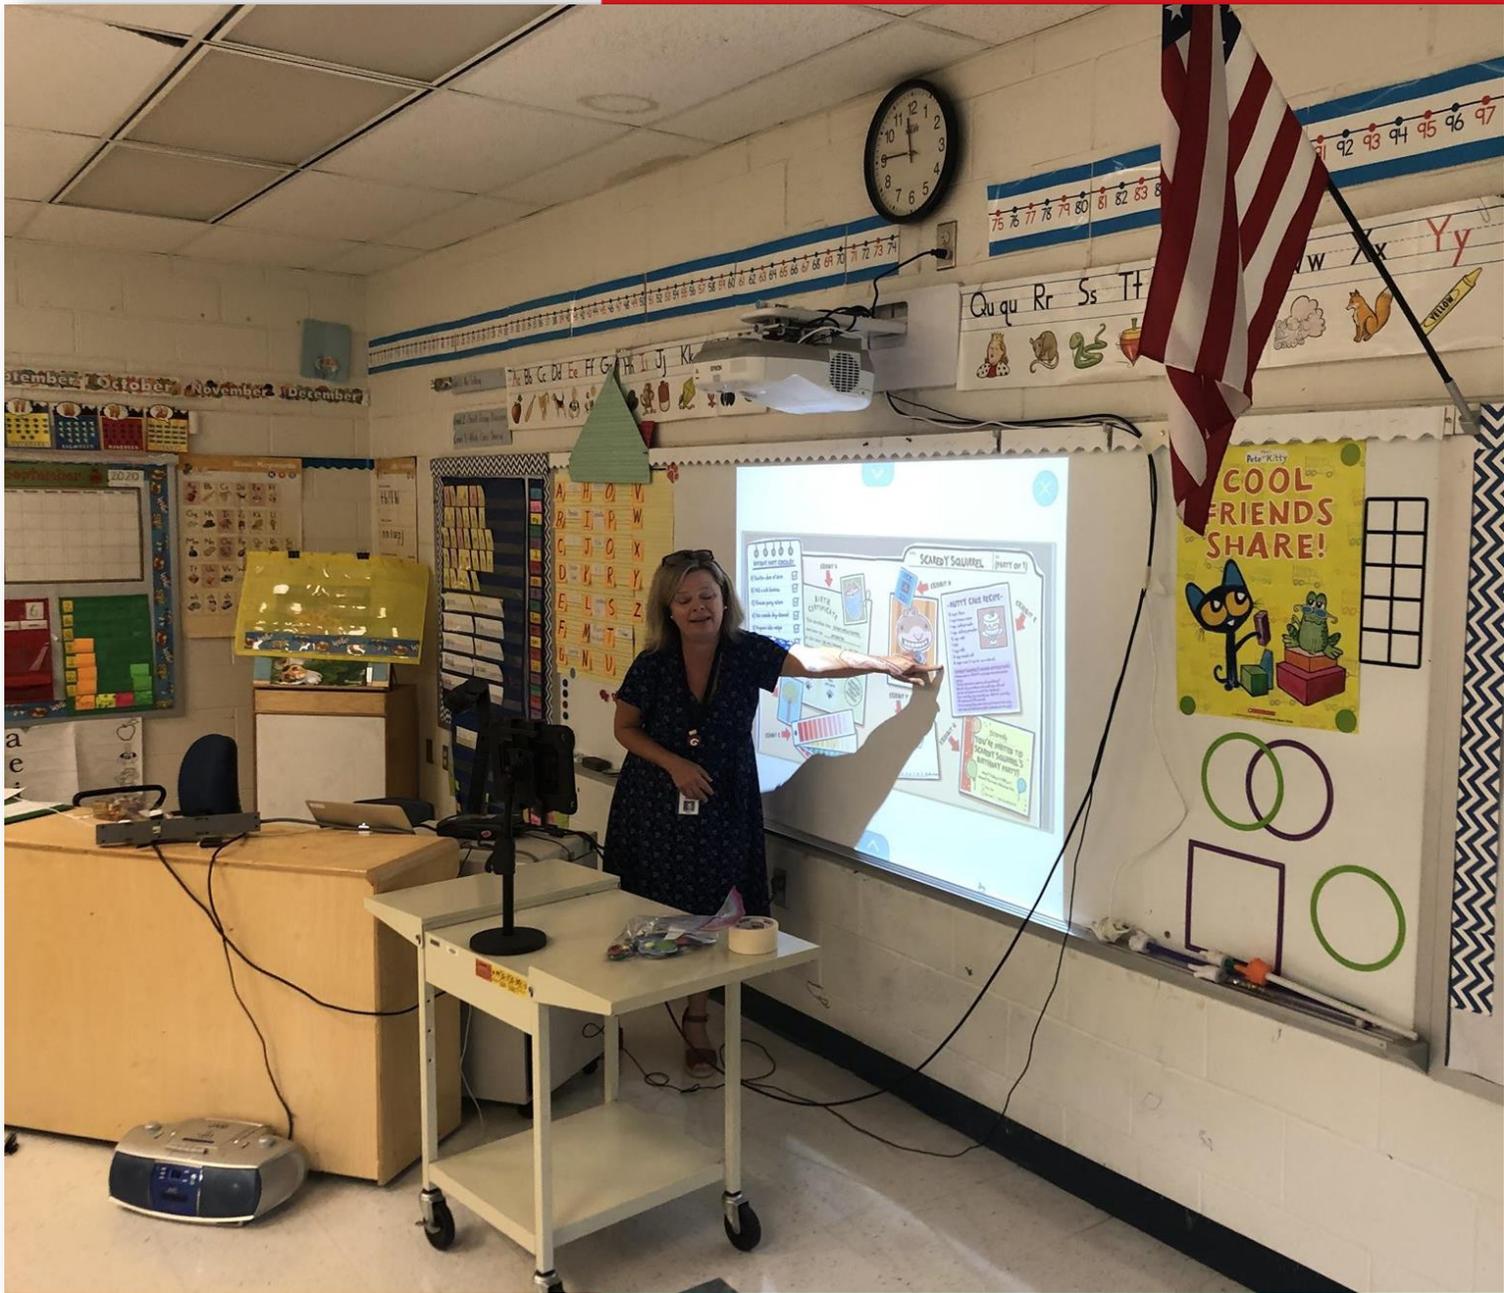

Goochland County Public Schools Recognized as a “School Division of Innovation” by the Virginia State Board of Education

*Contact: Dr. Andrew R. Armstrong, Assistant Superintendent for Administration
aarmstrong@glnd.k12.va.us | (804) 556 5605 | @glndschoools www.goochlandschools.org*

Last week, the Virginia State Board of Education recognized 15 Virginia school divisions as “School Divisions of Innovation” for designing and implementing alternatives to traditional instructional practices and school structures that improve student learning and promote college and career readiness, and good citizenship. The divisions are the first to earn the designation, which was authorized by the 2017 General Assembly.

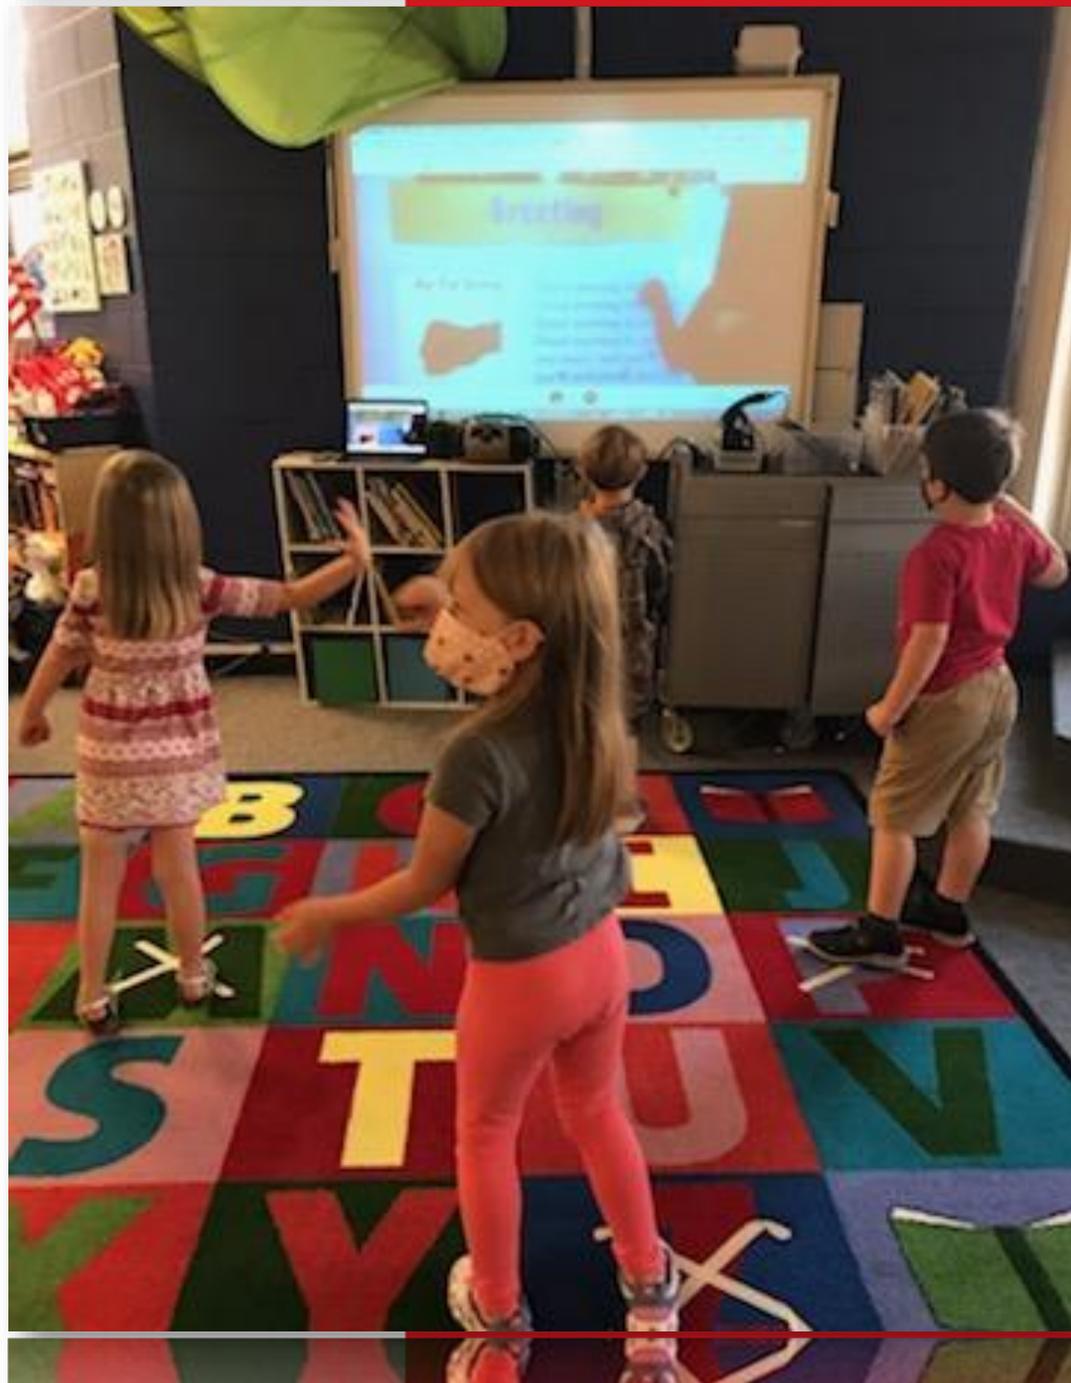

“I think it is fair to say that innovation has never been more important in public education than today as schools across the commonwealth and nation focus on improving distance learning in the face of a pandemic, while addressing inequities in opportunities and outcomes,” Board of Education President Daniel Gecker said. “I congratulate the leaders of all these school divisions for creating innovative plans to address the challenges in their schools and engage their students in deeper learning across the curriculum.”

Goochland County Public Schools was recognized for work in developing a “deeper learning index” to measure depth of student learning and for expanding authentic work-based experiences. “No matter how challenging the circumstances, our division continues to stay focused on providing our students and our families with the most engaging and innovative experience possible”, said Dr. Jeremy Raley, Superintendent. “To be recognized among only 15 of the 132 divisions in the Commonwealth with this honor is a testament to the talent of our staff and the support of our School Board and our community”.
